PASTOR'S MESSAGE

I was fortunate to be interviewing our new N.J. Attorney General the same day he was in the news as the object of derision by two NJ 101.5 DJ's. The Jersey City born lawyer made history as the first Sikh to hold a high public office in any state in the union. He is close to Mayor Ravi Bhalla, also a history maker. Here is my JERSEY JOURNAL column.

Fr. Alex Santora

Sikh values prove helpful to state AG | Faith Matters

When I sat down last week to interview N.J. Attorney General Gurbir Grewal in his Trenton office, we both had Jersey City on our minds. I was interested to hear his recollections about his early years in the city where he was born. He was being deluged with media requests after his decision to suspend Mayor Fulop's plan to decriminalize marijuana in the second-largest city in the state. "We can't be rushed," the 61st AG told me. Earlier that day, he had a conference call with the 21 country prosecutors to lay out a timetable. In the end, he decided to put a hold on all marijuana cases in municipal courts statewide until at least Sept. 4.

If you listen to Grewal, a gracious man, he fits the mold of the top state law enforcement officer. When you see him, you cannot help but notice that he is a Sikh -- a member of an Indian religion that dates back to the 16th century -- and wears a turban. He readily acknowledges he was taunted, like most Sikh boys in America, in elementary school in Bergen County because they wear their hair long and in a bun.

"One hundred percent of the time," he said with no trace of bitterness in his voice. Grewal learned to avoid sitting near those boys on the school bus who would pull his hair, he said, adding that the experiences gave him the resolve "to be more gregarious."

Little did he know during our conversation that soon after, at age 45, he would face taunting again, this time at the hands of adults: two radio hosts who derisively referred to his turban during a discussion of his marijuana policy. "This is not the first indignity I've faced and it probably won't be the last," he wrote in response on Twitter. "Sometimes, I endure it alone. Yesterday, all of New Jersey heard it. It's time to end small-minded intolerance." Grewal recalled for me that when his parents moved to Bergen County, the Glen Rock temple where his family worships was undeveloped and they sat under tents. Today, he brings his three girls -- ages 5, 7, and 9 -- to the active and developed temple, where Hoboken Mayor Ravi Bhalla, also Sikh, worships with his family. Grewal, an only child, considers Bhalla and Bhalla's brother, Amar, like his own brothers.

Brotherhood is a desired goal of Sikhs, who welcome anyone to their temples. They always have plenty of food and do not question why someone would come. Grewal has never been to the Jersey City temple off Broadway in the Marion section, which is growing as Jersey City becomes even more diverse. Grewal's first years were spent on Sip Avenue in a multi-family home with a Guyanese family and another Indian family residing in the building. "It's a very welcoming city," he said of Jersey City.

Some desired traits Sikhs promote are, in Grewal's words, "selfless service and prosperity for all." These guide some of the initiatives he has created.

During his tenure as the Bergen County prosecutor, before becoming AG after Murphy took office in January, Grewal implemented Operation Helping Hand, for example, to assist drug addicts. Out of 180 arrests, 150 people received treatment. "We do not want to humiliate people," he said.

As AG, his "21 for 21" program requires the top prosecutor in each of New Jersey's 21 counties to offer quarterly programs for religious and community leaders. This year's topics are police use of deadly force, opioid and drug addiction, community policing and immigration policies. "There is an uptick in bias crimes," Grewal said, mentioning anti-immigrant sentiment, pro-Nazism, hate and intolerance as behaviors he believes we must respond to and suppress.

"I want to set an example as an attorney general, as a good leader with proper values," he said.

Grewal is a strong believer in social justice, another Sikh trait, and lit up when I asked about his years at Jesuit-run Georgetown. He graduated from their highly touted School of Foreign Service and acknowledged the Jesuits he had as teachers and mentors, saying he wants his daughters to go to Jesuit schools.

Another Sikh trait is "honest conduct" and if he can survive the ruthless N.J. politics intact, he might make history like another Georgetown graduate, Bill Clinton.

MITE BOX DONATIONS

We have donated $500 to the Dominican Sisters in Iraq to reestablish their Catholic schools after ISIS terrorists destroyed them. Read Sr. Arlene's letter of thanks on p. 6 of this bulletin. We also donated $500 to the Religious Teachers Filippini for their Sisters in Eritrea and $500 in memory of Sr. M. Reginald Zajac, O.S.F. to her Bernardine Franciscan Sisters for their retired and infirm Sisters. Thank you for your Lenten generosity.

YA HAPPY HOUR

Young adults will hold a Happy Hour on Thursday, August 16, 2018, at Pier 13 from 7:30 to 9. We especially welcome new residents of Hoboken and the parish. To stay up to date on all of our Young Adult events, please follow us on Facebook "Young Adults of Our Lady of Grace, Hoboken, NJ"

OUR BIG FLEA MARKET

We are now gearing up for our next big event, "Ann and Ronnie's Super Flea Market, Used Book Sale and Silent Auction," which will be held on Sunday, September 23, 2018. Now is the time to clear your spare rooms, attics, basements, and storage units for all kinds of items you can donate to OLG. We have a huge general table, children's toys, holiday decorations and clothes. Please bring items to the choir room on Sundays and to the Parish Center during the week. You may reserve a space for $35 and bring your own table and chairs to sell your items. Space is given on a first-come basis. The application may be found on p. 7 of this bulletin.

ST. JOSEPH CHURCH

We are trying to get out the word to many of the new residents around St. Joseph Church especially in Jersey City right near the trestle entrance to Hoboken about the Sunday Noon Mass. Please take some of the new, high quality, large postcards on the church tables and give them to friends, neighbors or co-workers.

CCD TEACHERS

We are looking for individuals who would like to assist with our CCD or religious education program for one hour on Sunday mornings beginning in September through May. Classes are not held long weekends. There are opportunities for team teaching. Angela Maffei, our pastoral associate, will prepare you. Please contact her at the rectory or see Fr. Santora.

BECOMING CATHOLIC

Do you need to prepare for your Communion and/or Confirmation? Do you know someone who wants to become Catholic? Now is the time to contact Fr. Phil or Angela Maffei, our pastoral associate, so you can begin the preparation in September. There will be an inquiry session with Fr. Phil on Tuesday, August 28, 2018.

NEW SPANISH MISSAL

We thank Violet Heitmann & Family for donating the new Spanish Missal at St. Joseph in Memory of Claire Sebesta. We also have one available at OLG for memorializing or honorarium. Please contact Ronnie in the Parish Center if interested. ~ Page 3 - 665 ~

MENSAJE SEMANAL

La solemnidad de la Asunción, que celebramos este miércoles, el 15 de Agosto, puede ser un evento difícil para relacionarnos – es una celebración que recalca un privilegio singular de Maria, una de las cosas que la distingue del resto de humanidad. Pero sabemos, que Maria no es solamente la imagen del cuerpo de Cristo, pero también, una miembro – es nuestra madre, por supuesto, pero también, nuestra hermana. Los privilegios que ella recibe no la separa de nosotros, en absoluto; al contrario, Maria recibe estos privilegios para que se acerque más y más a nosotros, para fortalecer nuestra fe, y guiarnos a la vida eterna.

Escuchamos en el prefacio, una de las oraciones de la Misa, las palabras: “Hoy ha sido elevada al cielo la Virgen Madre de Dios, anticipo e imagen de la perfección que alcanzará tu iglesia, garantía de Consuelo y esperanza para tu pueblo, todavía peregrino en la tierra.” En esta solemnidad, estamos recordados del “anticipo e imagen” de la perfección que esperamos de alcanzar, y estamos dados “una garantía de consuelo y esperanza” para ayudarnos por nuestro tiempo aquí en la tierra. Y esa imagen, esa señal de consuelo, es la imagen de ser atraído hacia arriba al cielo, por el amor del Padre, del Hijo, y del Espíritu Santo. Nuestra Señora continuamente nos recuerda de nuestra vocación de tener vida eterna con Dios, y de nuestra misión aquí en la tierra – la misión de llevar la buena noticia de su amor a cada persona que entra en nuestras vidas. Y como nuestra madre, Maria constantemente nos acompaña y intercede por nosotros, y así nos lleva más y más profundamente en esa relación con su Hijo, y nos obtiene la gracia para ser fieles a nuestra misión como discípulos. Que Dios siempre nos de la gracia de imitar a Maria, y seguir donde ella nos ha precedido.

En el amor de Cristo,
Padre Felipe

¡NECESITAMOS AYUDA!

Hermanos y hermanas de San Jose, necesitamos voluntarios para el Flea Market, café, y el coro. En estas ultimas semanas, pocas personas han tenido que trabajar mucho, porque no había ayuda suficiente. Si están disponibles los domingos en la mañana, les pido que se ofrezcan como voluntarios para ayudar con uno de estas actividades. No es simplemente trabajo; es una buena oportunidad de conocer nuevos miembros de nuestra comunidad, pasar tiempo con sus amigos, y contribuir a la vida de nuestra iglesia. Por favor, consideren ayudarnos.

INICIACIÓN CRISTIANA

Tiene que preparar para Comunión o Confirmación? Quiere convertirse en católico? Por favor, contacte a Padre Felipe o a Angela Maffei si estan interesados, o si tienen preguntas. Tenemos una reunión martes, el 28 de Agosto, a las 7:30 pm, para hacer preguntas, y obtener más información.

Sister Arlene Flaherty, OP
JPIC Office

Dear Members of the OLG/St. Joseph parish community,

I am writing to thank you for your generous donation of five hundred dollars (USD 500), to the Dominican Sisters of St. Catherine of Siena in Iraq. As you will remember, I have had several occasions to visit this community of Sisters over the past few years, most recently, as they experienced being driven out of their motherhouse in Mosul, Iraq and into Kurdistan by ISIS.

Although their experience of being refugees—chased from their home, ministries, and way of life by ISIS, has placed them in a form of solidarity with their people that most of us can only imagine, the struggle and the exhaustion of their displacement and efforts to regroup has been their constant companion and deepest struggle. As their Sister-Dominican, I have been personally challenged and motivated by their faith, their resilience and their capacity to build ministries among the Iraqi refugees even as they themselves are experiencing the pain of dislocation.

In the last few months, ISIS has retreated from Mosul and many of the Christian communities they recently occupied. As our Iraqi Dominican Sisters return to these ministry sites where they have been serving for countless years, they are shocked to see the scale and type of violence that their Christian community members, as well as churches, convents and shrines have suffered at the hands of ISIS. Their work now is the work of bringing healing and restoration to the Christian community devastated by ISIS. One of our Iraq Sisters, NAZIK, described the broken motherhouse altar. She writes, “It was in pieces. When we were exiled from our lands, we also hoped that one day we would return home and see our convents and pray around our altars. It was as if ISIS wanted to remind us that we are now a broken community, stricken people, empty land, abandoned churches and confused leadership. People who used to believe that their presence was very connected to the presence of churches and shrines spent three years exiled from their towns with their eyes longing to see their churches. The scattered pieces of altar made us question all our years of trusting in God’s promise of restoration.

Nevertheless, the hope that the Sisters are bringing to Iraq today is in the grinding day to day tedious efforts of restoring what was so violently broken – evidenced not only in the stone and mortar of the buildings but also in the battered spirit of the Iraqi Christian people. Your donation is helping to support this work of healing, restoration and generating hope.

Thanks to all for the love and solidarity you are sharing with our brothers and sisters in Iraq. Your donation, your prayers and your advocacy is so deeply appreciated and so deeply needed.

With gratitude and love,

Sister Arlene
